

Participle Preposition Exercises

Here are some exercises to practice using participles as prepositions:

Exercise 1: Fill in the blank with the correct participle preposition:

- She sat there, lost ____ thought.
- The cat jumped ____ the table.
- He ran ____ the park, enjoying the fresh air.
- They walked ____ the bridge, admiring the view.
- The book fell ____ the shelf.

Exercise 2: Rewrite the sentences using a participle preposition:

- She looked at him while he was speaking.
- The dog ran towards the ball after it was thrown.
- The children played in the garden when the sun was shining.
- He cooked dinner while listening to music.
- She opened the door as the guests arrived.

Exercise 3: Create your sentences:

- Use a participle preposition to describe an action happening simultaneously with another action.
- Use a participle preposition to show the location or direction of movement.
- Use a participle preposition to indicate the reason for an action.
- Use a participle preposition to describe how something was done.

Answers:

Fill in the blank with the correct participle preposition:

- She sat there, lost in thought.
- The cat jumped off the table.
- He ran through the park, enjoying the fresh air.
- They walked across the bridge, admiring the view.
- The book fell from the shelf.

Rewrite the sentences using a participle preposition:

- She looked at him while speaking.
- The dog ran towards the ball after being thrown.
- The children played in the garden while the sun was shining.
- He cooked dinner while listening to music.
- She opened the door as the guests arrived.

Create your own sentences:

- While typing a message, she glanced at the clock.
- He walked along the path, lost in thought.
- Smiling at the compliment, she accepted the award.
- With determination, he climbed the mountain.

